All referenced to data refer to your personal data.

All reference to “we” mean DCNW Ltd and any event operated by DCNW Ltd such as “Hibanacon”.

DCNW Ltd are committed to maintaining your privacy and this policy is intended to cover the following information:

1. Inform you about the GDPR
2. Provide you a clear understanding of the following topics:
 - What personal data we collect
 - How it is collected
 - Why we collect it
 - What it is used for
 - Where it is stored
 - How long data is retained for

Your privacy is important to us and we believe the GDPR regulations are fundamental in protecting your privacy and will always comply with all GDPR regulations. We respect your right to be informed about usage and collection of you personal data and provide this policy both to aid in your understanding, addressing the topics specified above and as part of meeting our legal obligations under GDPR regulations.

What is GDPR?

General Data Protection Regulation, GDPR, are EU regulations to which all members of the EU are subject. In effect it is a set of rules which organisations must follow if they process personal data in any way for any purpose. It is similar to the data protection act which it replaces but places more emphasis on disclosing to a data subject the purposes for which their data will be used as well as providing much more control over how their data is used and allowing, for example, consent to be revoked. Anyone processing personal data must tell you what information they will process, the legal basis they have for requesting the data and what they will use it for. Data, once obtained, can only be used for the purpose for which it was originally obtained and cannot be used for any unrelated purposes. For more information about GDPR, then please see the EUs own information site at

<https://www.eugdpr.org/eugdpr.org.html>

Where is my data stored?

As is true for most websites, we utilise some 3rd party services to manage and store your data. This means that your data may be transferred, processed and stored outside the EEA in some circumstances. All of our systems have been selected to ensure that they comply with EU directives for privacy, privacy shield and are therefore compatible with our privacy obligations and commitment to you.

We utilise the following 3rd party systems to store and manage your data:

Agile CRM – Stores and manages your registration and ticket details along with some website analytical data. This is hosted using Google Cloud services, Google Cloud conforms with EU data protection laws including ensuring that all data is encrypted, please see <https://cloud.google.com/security/compliance/eu-data-protection/> for further information.

MailChimp – An industry standard email distribution list management solution used to send you updates regarding our events and, if you have opted in, marketing emails. MailChimp conforms to privacy shield regulations and is GDPR compliant. You can find details of their privacy policy here <https://mailchimp.com/legal/privacy/>

Stripe – Stores financial transaction records and provides payment processing facilities for our website. You can find details of the privacy shield policy here <https://stripe.com/privacy-shield-policy> ownCloud – A private cloud service hosted by our ISP on encrypted UK based servers used as outlined in the “What information do you keep” section.

Google Analytics – A standard platform that records aggregated website usage data. The data collected is anonymised.

What information do you keep?

The following table outlines the pieces of data we collect, where we collect, what it is used for, where it is stored and for how long.

* Pseudoanonymised in this instance means it may be possible under some circumstances, were the data to be combined with other data we hold, to re-identify an individual. We do not perform such re-identification activities as we do not believe this is consistent with our commitment to your privacy. An example of re-identification would be if a person were to have attended and paid for ticket with their credit card and were the only person within a postal code area to do so, combining the first part of the post code with the payment record would allow for re-identification.

Who has access to my data?

Personal data is only accessible to DCNW directors and a restricted subset of the Hibanacon committee that deal with registrations. All persons with access must abide by and follow our data protection policy.
